LINDBERGH ABDUCTOR HUNT REACHES DEAD END

Ship Is Carrying Rescued Atlantic Airman To Port

Stanislaus Hausner, Picked Up From Floating Plane 500 Miles West of Portugal, Is Expected to Be Landed at New Orleans; He Hopped Off From New York

Canadian Press
New York, June 13.—While the British tanker Circe Shell, loaded through heavy seas to New Orleans, La., efforts are being made to reach the vessel by radio to-day for the first-hand story of the rescue at sea of Stanislaus Felix Hausner, nine days after his take-off on an attempted non-stop flight from New York to Poland.

Aviation authorities here were high in their praise of the aviator for having succeeded in landing his machine in the open sea, apparently without seriously damaging the craft, and then keeping it afloat for several days, until a timely rescue by the Circe Shell was achieved. Hausner was an inexperienced pilot, with only a limited license, which is the lowest class flying permit issued by the United States Department of Commerce.

With details of the flier's harrowing experiences lacking, those well versed in transatlantic flights had nothing to work on except conjecture.

When Hausner took off from the old Bennett Field for Warsaw on the morning of June 3, the weather along the Great Circle route, which he had planned to follow, was stormy and foggy. He was urged to postpone the trip, but the advice went unheeded.

CITY SOON TO MAKE BOND SALE

Mayor Leeming Forecasts Early Action on "City's Most Important Business"

Early action by the City Council in regard to sale of the city's issue of $500,000 debentures was anticipated by Mayor Leeming this morning. "This is the most important business now remaining for the attention of the council," said the mayor.

Mayor Leeming has been vested with authority to prepare recommendations in regard to marketing the big debenture issue, but this morning declined to give any forecast of the proposals he may lay before the council.

The city's over-the-counter issue of $500,000 is selling well, city treasury officials this morning stated. Sales up to Saturday noon amounted to $137,000.

Another aspect of the city's finances, which is giving satisfaction, is the steady increase in the total of pre-aid taxes, now standing at $419,834.16. Taxpayers' receipts in this amount are totaling $15,778. Last year the city had received at June 11 $387,000. Payments made up to and including September 1 will be entitled to interest, the city paying 6 per cent until October 1.

Took Nearly Hour To Land Huge Fish

Joy P. Thompson Lands 53 1/2 Pound Spring at Brentwood Yesterday

First Member of New Club; Believed Largest Fish Caught in Inlet

Weighing fifty-three and a half pounds, a huge spring salmon was landed yesterday at Brentwood Bay by Joy P. Thompson, a member of the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. It is believed to be the largest salmon ever caught in Saanich Inlet. The fish is now on view at the store of Wilson and Lenfestey, Government Street, and caused no end of interest to-day. It is being displayed as it was caught with the red, reel and hook in its mouth.

The salmon was caught on a number 15 brass "wonder" spoon, using wire line on a rod and reel with one pound of lead. Thompson had a Japanese boat leader, and was forced to play the fish.

No Golf Course At Elk Lake

The Victoria City Council "has no intention whatever" of developing a golf course at Elk Lake, Mayor Leeming this morning stated. He explained that last Friday, when the City Council was in session, he had before it a list of recommendations from City Engineer Preston as to works suitable for further relief of the city.

"The council accepted a number of the suggestions for consideration but devoted no attention whatever to the Elk Lake golf course item. Not five words were said regarding that matter except to turn it down forthwith," the Mayor stated.

SEA GIVES BACK HER FLIER HUSBAND

Awaiting the return of Stanislaus Hausner to the United States is his wife, pictured above, who was the last to bid him goodbye when he left New York for Warsaw, Poland. Her brave effort to keep up her belief he would be rescued, was rewarded when word was flashed by the liner Leviathan to New York that Hausner had been taken safely aboard the tanker Circe Shell Saturday.

NO GOLD RULE FOR BRITAIN

Government Not Planning Return to That Standard, Says Chancellor

Canadian Press
London, June 13.—Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the Commons to-day it would not be desirable for Great Britain to return to the gold standard "as long as existing conditions continue."

The country went off the gold standard last September 30, when Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden was Chancellor.

Last week the League of Nations gold committee recommended a return to the gold standard as quickly as possible by those governments which had abandoned it. To aid in restoration of the standard the report recommended a "satisfactory solution of the war debts and reparations problem" and a "reasonable degree of freedom in the movement of goods and services."

BRITISH-IRISH CONFERENCE

Canadian Press
London, June 13.—Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, British Secretary of State, told the Commons to-day he expected further conversations would be held between the British and Irish Free State governments on present points of difference.

CANOE UPSETS, MEN RESCUED

Three of Crew of Ss. Olympic Had Narrow Escape in Inner Harbor Yesterday

Three members of the crew of the ferry steamer Olympic had a narrow escape from drowning in the Inner Harbor just after dark yesterday evening. They were out in a canoe getting relief from the heat when their frail craft upset in the mouth of the harbor. Fortunately all could swim. The men were George Palmer, Oscar Lee and Austin King.

Their cries for help were heard by William Adam, night watchman at the Brackman-Ker mill, and Fred King of the Canadian Customs staff, who was motoring along the waterfront. Mr. King left his car and rushed to give assistance. One of the men by that time was swimming toward the wharf, while the other two were hanging on to their canoe in mid-stream, attempting to paddle themselves to shore. In the darkness it was impossible for Mr. King or Mr. Adam to see the men and they had to be guided by their voices. The first man swam under the piling of the Brackman-Ker wharf and was finally pulled up on the dock by assistance. He was in an exhausted condition. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

MAN HURT BY FLYING WIRE

New Westminster, June 13.—With a piece of strand of a wire cable in his body, L. L. Moorhouse, Fort Langley, is in the Royal Columbia Hospital here.

He was struck by the cable when it broke while he was pulling stumps at Ogilvie. The piece of strand pierced his back and, penetrating a lung, lodged so near the heart that any attempt to remove it is regarded as dangerous.

Mr. B. H. Murr, Fort Langley, who attended Mr. Moorhouse, states the latter's life is not endangered unless infection sets in.

Chicago Welcomes Convention Throng

Leaders of U.S. Republicans at Pre-session Conferences Struggle With Prohibition Question; First Presidential Nomination Session Tomorrow

Chicago, June 13.—The swiftly-rising whirlpool of Republican dissension over prohibition completely engulfed the chosen representatives of the party to-day on the eve of their national convention.

To general and rear-rank private alike, what to do about the dry law was the one big question.

Not only were they ready to renounce the prohibition plank, but sentiment was turning definitely to Vice-President Curtis for his running-mate, and all of the lesser disputes over platform and procedure seemed headed for harmonious decision.

No one any longer expected harmony on prohibition. The prediction of a plank "acceptable to all of us" had gone up in the smoke of the most furious platform battle any Republican convention has been since the League of Nations row in 1920.

Leaders are weary. Haggard and plainly discouraged after many hours of conference, the high commanders of the party continued their efforts at a compromise while indignant drys and insistent wets hammered at the doors.

VOTE SOON ON U.S. BONUS

House in Washington Decides to Consider $2,400,000,000 Payment Plan

If Passed, Scheme Must Go to Senate; President Ready With Veto

Washington, June 13.—The United States House of Representatives to-day voted to call up the $2,400,000,000 cash bonus payment legislation for formal consideration.

This represented a step toward victory for the 12,000 war veterans who have poured into Washington to demand immediate payment of the bonus certificates.

If the House approves the bonus payment on the final vote, the legislation still must run the gauntlet of the Senate and the White House. What action the Senate would take is problematical, but President Hoover has promised a veto.

The vote for consideration was 226 to 175.

As new thousands poured to-day into the capital to add their voices to the war veterans' demand, police sought recruits for a departing force that appeared to be forming.

Many of those who trudged into the city through a downpour of rain stopped on Capitol Hill to join comrades in lobbying for the favorable House vote to-day on the bonus issue.

All were hopeful, but the spirit of a few became as damped as their soiled clothing in the rain which made their encampments soggy mud holes.

So dispondent was one group of seventeen that an emissary was sent to appeal to Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent to take them by truck toward their homes. In dry days last week the veterans scorned transportation offered by police.

Police Looking For New Clues After Collapse of Theories Based On Suicide

LESS BEER IF PRICE GOES UP

Hotelmen Meet Cabinet and Protest Against Proposed Increase in Price

Warn Government It Will Lose Revenue; Beer Parlors Cannot Absorb Boost

A delegation of thirty-five hotelmen and beer parlor proprietors, headed by J. J. Walsh, secretary of the Hotelmen's Association, met the cabinet this morning and protested against any increase in beer prices. The delegation was introduced by William Dick, M.P.P., for Vancouver.

The delegation said the additional cost of one dollar a barrel which the Liquor Board intended to put into effect on June 15, would reduce consumption of beer and result in a loss of from $10,000 to $15,000 a year to the government.

Mr. Walsh stated that if the beer parlors must pay the increase, the patron would receive a smaller quantity of beer. The standard glass throughout British Columbia ranges from seven and one-half to nine ounces which would be reduced probably an ounce. While this does not seem much, it was pointed out that, figured on last year's sales of beer by the government, the cost of $24,000,000 must be taken into consideration the lower revenue of $107,700. This is estimated, on last year's basis, by a profit of $4.65 a barrel on bulk beer and $4.35 on each barrel of bottled beer, or a loss of $93,000 and $8,700, respectively on bulk and bottled varieties, or a net loss of $13,700.

The delegation also urged a system of better distribution, advocating delivery of beer from beer parlors to the home.

After meeting the executive the delegation met W. F. Kennedy, liquor commissioner, with whom the government will consult before making any decision in the matter.

BISHOP AS RECTOR

Toronto, June 13.—Rt. Rev. P. J. Benson, Bishop of Athabasca, has been appointed rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Bloor Street, Toronto, succeeding Canon H. J. Cody, who is retiring to assume the post of president of the University of Toronto in succession to Sir Robert Falconer.

Opposition Leads In Newfoundland

Five of Six Constituencies Counted Go Against Government; Premier Squires Defeated in Own Constituency

St. John's, Nfld., June 13.—Final returns from six of the twenty-six constituencies in which voting took place in Saturday's general elections in Newfoundland showed five opposition candidates elected and one government victory. Of the remaining constituencies, nine reported steadily increasing gains for the opposition members, while one seat, Fortune, had been filled by the acclamation of Hon. H. M. Mosdell, independent, formerly Minister Without Portfolio in the government of Premier Sir Richard Squires.

The Prime Minister suffered a personal defeat in the Trinity South, where Harold Mitchell, United Newfoundland candidate, had a majority of 679.

F. C. Alderidge, leader of the United Newfoundland Party, maintained a substantial lead as returns continued to come in from St. John's West.

The lone government candidate so far elected was Hon. P. G. Bradley, Humber. Mr. Bradley was a Minister Without Portfolio in the last government. He defeated S. D. Cook by a majority of 388.

H. A. Winter, K.C., opposition, defeated F. Archibald, government, by a majority of 1,706.

M. J. Shea had a majority of 2,017 over the government candidate in Ferryland, L. Whelan.

A majority of 1,366 was given the opposition candidate in Carboneau, J. C. Fuddester, over the government candidate, Hon. R. Cramm.

James B. Ayre, opposition, had a majority of 1,122 over B. J. Smith, the government's choice in Port de Grave.

Returns were slow in coming in, much time being necessary for the collection of ballot boxes from the isolated polling stations. The opposition candidates were maintaining leading positions in Grand Falls, Harbor Main, Placentia East, St. John's West, St. John's East, Burn, Fogo and Bonaville.

BUSY MAN TO-DAY

Ernest Brinkert, Taxi Driver, With Alibi Established, Prepares Written Statement For Authorities; Police Say Violet Sharpe Not Badgered Before She Ended Her Life

Trouton, N.J., June 13.—A bulletin issued by the New Jersey state police to-day indicated the investigation of the abduction and murder of the Lindbergh baby had again reached a dead end after collapse of the police theory that "guilty knowledge" had caused the suicide of Miss Violet Sharpe.

Ernest Brinkert, New Rochelle, N.Y., ex-convict named by Miss Sharpe before she took poison, as her partner on the night of the abduction, continued work on his written statement at the police barracks at Alpine. His alibi had been corroborated.

"He will conclude his written statement to-day," Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, announced, "and has volunteered to stay at Alpine until it is completely verified."

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIR
Alpine, N.J., June 13.—The case of Violet Sharpe, English domestic servant, wore an international aspect to-day as police denied accusations they had carried her to death.

The charge, voiced indignantly in the English press, was followed by news that Labor members of Parliament were expected to ask the British government to-day to make representations to the United States about the death of the girl. She took poison in the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow last Friday as police arrived to question her anew about her movements the night Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. was abducted.

CHECK-UPS MADE
After watching the theory they built up against Miss Sharpe and Ernest Brinkert, taxi driver from White Plains, N.Y., go to pieces, police busied themselves with final check-ups.

There was never undue pressure brought to bear during her questioning by the police, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, said. On each of the four occasions members of the Morrow or Lindbergh household were present.

Only one theory remains to be cleared up so far as Violet Sharpe is concerned. Police said they had found in her room a number of business cards of a taxi company. She was supposed to have been in contact with the company. He has denied he knew her.

NO CHARGES
Governor A. Harry Moore was asked whether he was contemplating any action against the police in connection with the death.

"No charges have been made to me," he said.

ERNEST MILLER'S STORY
Ernest Miller, located at the instigation of Miss Sharpe's loyal friend, Septimus Bank, the Morrow butler, on Saturday evening, gave a convincing account of an automobile trip on the night of the crime with Miss Sharpe.

"Are you now looking for any definite person or persons in connection with the crime?" Col. Schwarzkopf was asked.

Chaplin Back From Trip Around World

Saw Victoria Yesterday in Distance; Said He Was Sorry He Could Not Come Here

"I am sorry this ship does not call at Victoria. I would like to see it again after all these years," said Charlie Chaplin, famous screen comedian, as he gazed in the distance at Victoria from the deck of the N.Y.K. motorship Hikawa Maru as she lay at anchor off William Head quarantine station yesterday evening at 9 o'clock.

The Hikawa went on to Vancouver after medical inspection, and all Chaplin saw of this city was the dim outline in the dusk and the twinkling lights.

QUESTIONS IN LONDON ON LINDBERGH CASE

Associated Press

THE DOUKHOBOR FRONT

ALL QUIET ON THE DOUKHOBOR
front. Attorney-General Pooley is entitled to the luxury of a deep sigh of relief over the alleviation of the Doukhobor situation. Whether the incarceration in goal of the fanatical nudists has permanently solved the problem or not remains to be seen, but it is to be hoped that their present experience will teach them the uselessness of resuming their attitude of calculated, dangerous lawlessness, and will make them more amenable to the obligations of citizenship in this country when they have been released from confinement than they have been up to this time. If they continue in their recalcitrant practices after their release it will be necessary to isolate them in some place where they can not do any harm to any element but themselves. In most cases they are not subject to deportation under our laws, so in the event of their failure to profit from their present experience they must be dealt with in another way.

The Attorney-General has been handicapped, until recently, in dealing with this matter by the inadequacy of legislation affecting the activities of these people. Amendments adopted by Parliament at Ottawa last session, however, have cleared the way for the rather drastic measures which have been found to be necessary, and he has taken the only course open to him to meet a situation which was reaching a point of gravity, in all of its implications, not understood or appreciated in some quarters.

The Doukhobor problem is not merely a matter of parades in the nude by fanatics. It is a much more complicated business than that. The fanaticism which inspired these parades also prompted the destruction of school-houses and other public buildings, attacks on railroads involving risk to the lives of people traveling on them, and other offences against the interests of citizens who live in the vicinity of the Doukhobor settlement. If the Attorney-General had not taken a firm stand in dealing with this matter, it was only a question of time when the public in that locality who are not Doukhobors would have taken the law into their own hands, and resorted to measures of a more summary character than those which the crown has employed under the law. The Attorney-General has had to consider not only the lawless practices of the fanatics themselves, but their effect upon the patience of the law-abiding population whose interests were being threatened by them. This is an important aspect of the situation which should be borne in mind by those who are disposed to criticize the measures he has taken.

More than nine hundred members of this fanatical group have been taken in hand by the authorities. Some of them are serving stiff sentences, others are awaiting trial, while several hundred children have been distributed among institutions on the Mainland and in Victoria. Those who have criticized the separation of the children from their parents should remember that the removal of children from homes in which improper influences are operating is almost a daily occurrence throughout this province, and that our magistrates are frequently giving decisions to that effect in the routine proceedings of our courts—decisions which in many cases are based upon considerations of a much less urgent nature than those involved in the case of the Doukhobor children.

While the federal authorities must bear the cost of the imprisonment of the Doukhobor adults, the province, we assume, must provide for the care of their children. Ottawa, however, really ought to pay the whole amount, since the problem originated in the immigration of these people from Russia under a policy pursued by the federal government some twenty-five years ago. Certainly the provincial authorities have no responsibility for the beginnings of this situation, which must have been a nightmare to them, and which the Attorney-General has met in the only way an officer charged with the administration of law and order could be fairly expected to meet it.

NO CAUSE FOR STAGE FRIGHT

SOME PEOPLE HAVE DEVELOPED AN attack of stage fright at the approach of the Imperial Economic Conference, due to open in Ottawa next month. The Toronto Globe wants the Archbishop of Canterbury to accede to Premier Bennett's wish to set aside a day of prayer and offer up a special invocation on the gathering's behalf. His Lordship has replied in the House of Lords he can not see how it could seem right that the Ottawa meeting should be singled out for special divine intercession when there are so many other world conferences apparently even more in need of it. Next The Vancouver Daily Province is urging that King George should be induced to make a special visit to Canada to ensure the success of the gathering through his presence.

In the meantime, the British woolen manufacturers have laid down as essential to the success of the conference a list of conditions under which a market for their products will be opened in the Dominions. These the textile trade of Canada wholeheartedly opposes on the patriotic grounds that a woolen mill in Canada means as much to the Empire as a woolen mill in Britain. Le Droit of Ottawa points out South Africa wants reciprocity with Britain and the other Dominions on condition that her national industries are adequately protected. Australia wants to sell her meat and dairy products. India is always ready to sell her pig-iron and half-finished steel to Britain. The Irish Free State wants more extensive markets for her dairy products and as little as possible said about the oath of allegiance. British farmers want their home-grown meat supply safeguarded. Canada wants to sell her grain, cattle, pulp and paper and keep all her industries secure, along the lines of the assertion of Premier MacDonald and Mr. J. H. Thomas that "we ought to consider in the first place the interests of our own people, then the interests of the Empire."

For the good of the conference, we are thankful that its date is as close at hand as it is. If it were much more distant something might have to be done to save it from its friends as well as its sceptics. But for these attacks of nerves at this time there is no justification. There are many facets to the rough problem of the conference; but they are not beyond harmonizing into a constructive unit if tackled without too much heroics and in a spirit of Empire generosity and reasonableness.

FOREST FIRES

EVERY YEAR AT THIS TIME THE PUBLI-c is warned that carelessness with fire in the wooded regions of the province may result in thousands of dollars' worth of damage to our forest resources. It is regrettable that at the end of each summer season the waste of timber that might have been saved by ordinary care shows no appreciable falling off.

The offenders are by no means only those who build camp fires and fail to put them out. Many start from lighted cigar and cigarette ends and other inflammable particles dropped on the parched undergrowth by the side of the highway. Just a little breeze is all that is necessary to spread the flames. Four days of hot weather such as practically every part of this Island and the Mainland already has had has increased the hazard to a highly dangerous point.

Forestry officials this year are considerably handicapped in their business of fighting fires. At the recent session of the Legislature the government, in its efforts to economize, found it necessary to reduce the appropriation for the maintenance of this service. It will be understood, therefore, that upon the public, now more than ever, a greater responsibility rests.

If those who take their recreation in the out-of-doors will bear in mind that if they will exercise as much care to avoid fire outside as they do in their own homes, the ash heap this year will be much smaller than it has previously been. Let it be remembered that trees which have taken a hundred years to grow to maturity may be destroyed in a few moments.

WRONG PLACE AND WRONG TIME

THERE IS MUCH THE CITY COULD DO to improve its property at Elk Lake that would make it more attractive for citizen and visitor alike; but a golf course there would be impracticable.

Municipal golf courses have been constructed mainly to give working people an opportunity of enjoying this pastime at a price within their means. One of the chief considerations has been that of transportation—proximity to street car lines or regular bus service.

Even if there were not sufficient golfing facilities in Victoria and vicinity at the present time, if all the clubs had waiting lists—as some of them had when the municipal project was turned down by the taxpayers a few years ago—the argument in favor of constructing a course eight miles from the city still would be far from sound. To all intents and purposes it would be a course to which only those with automobiles would have convenient access.

It is a matter of common knowledge, of course, that the golf clubs now in operation in this community are suffering, like other institutions, from economic trouble. Membership rolls have dwindled and other sources of revenue are depleted. Even the suspension of the entrance fee has not been sufficient inducement to attract new blood to make up for the very substantial loss of revenue.

Those cities which years ago went into the municipal golf business have not regretted the experiment. In many communities, especially on the Pacific Coast, the revenue obtained in the early years from such ventures proved them to be sound business; they have been excellent money-makers. But if at some future date conditions should warrant Victoria's embarkation upon a project of this kind, the city council of that period would be wise to remember that convenience of access is one of the most important factors.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE OTTAWA CONFERENCE
The London Times Trade Supplement

It is necessary to insist on the futility of basing hopes on the expectation that the Dominion will go very far in adopting suggestions that mean the exposure of their young secondary industries to the competition of long-established rivals without compensating advantages. It is at least as important to consider what offers can be made as what demands can be put forward. Obviously an industry seeking concessions cannot offer compensating advantages in another trade; and if that is so it must seek for something tangible to offer in its own. It should not be forgotten that if the United Kingdom bought all its imported wheat in Canada alone that Dominion would still have to find a market for a surplus. It is useless to cite the speeches of the late Mr. Joseph Chamberlain in this connection, for the simple reason that the conditions have entirely changed since the free traders in these islands rejected his plans. This year's conference will be concerned with the state of affairs ruling in 1932, not the position as it existed in 1908.

PUBLICITY DE LUXE
The Ottawa Journal

Chicago bid more than $400,000 to get the Democratic and Republican parties to hold their national conventions in that city. The Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference will be worth twenty party conventions; and Ottawa is getting it for nothing. Apart altogether from the thousands who will be brought here from all over the empire, leaving hundreds of thousands of dollars in the city, there will be a publicity value that could not be bought for millions, or that could not be bought at all.

Influential empire papers like The Melbourne Argus, in Australia, and The Cape Times, in South Africa, have already published special conference numbers, with articles on Ottawa and pages of pictures of its principal scenes. Hundreds of other papers in Britain and the Dominions will be doing the same thing within the next few weeks; and, in addition, will be sending special representatives here for the conference. Mr. Geoffrey Dawson, editor of The London Times, will arrive here about the end of June. Mr. B. K. Long, editor of The Cape Times, is on his way here; and scores of others, leaders of empire journalism, will be following.

The truth is that the coming summer will be one of the most memorable in the history of Ottawa. Also one of the most profitable.

FOUR ITEMS of news in the same paper the other day caught my wandering eye. They seemed to convey at a glance the present state of American civilization. One told of the unspeakable horrors prevailing among the coal miners of Virginia and other southern states, where they have hardly known the experience of a square meal for a year. The second item estimated American unemployment at anything from 8,000,000 to 12,000,000. The third item reported a debate in Congress on federal aid to unemployment relief and tended to show that private agencies of charity have come to the end of their resources in many places. And the fourth item recorded from Hollywood the heartening announcement that a lady of the movies had "consented"—mark the word—had consented to accept $125,000 for every picture in which she appeared in future.

AT THE SAME TIME Governor Roosevelt, candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, was announcing that he favors a more general distribution of wealth in the future, to be brought about by economic planning. One would say offhand that the idea was sound and somewhat necessary where a lady of the films can get $125,000 for a few weeks' work, and a skilled workman would require almost exactly 100 years of labor to earn the same amount; provided he could keep a job continuously. What annoys the average man, it seems to me, is not that some other fellows have a lot of money while he is broke. He can accept that philosophically. What really gets under his skin is the fact that so many people who have it didn't earn it.

FOR EXAMPLE, no one ever murmured in the United States, so far as I have ever heard, at the wealth of the late Mr. Edison, because his labors for the common good were well recognized. No one would object to a man like Banting, who discovered insulin, receiving wealth in return. What annoys the ordinary fellow, who is incapable of seeing the finer points of our civilization, is that a movie actress, who gives the world nothing more than a pretty face and a shapely back—very not of her own making—should be paid a large fortune every month or so when most of the population is broke.

IT USED TO MARK one as an anarchist and a dangerous rebel to mention such a subject, but when a candidate for the Presidency of the United States does so, then I feel I may refer to it without alarming my friends too much. As a matter of fact, the rich ought to regard Mr. Roosevelt's plans for a more equitable distribution of wealth (whatever they may be, for he hasn't specified yet) with a glad new hope. It is they who need a more equal distribution more than the rest of us. It is the rich who, on the average, "give" the most unhappy. Indeed, all the rich men I know are miserably unhappy worrying all the time lest they lose a small part of their riches and suffering most of them, with indignation; all are miserable about their wealth except one fellow who is in politics, and he is so miserable over the cares of office that he has no time to think about his private affairs. To the rest a more equitable distribution of wealth would be a boon beyond all reckoning. The question in my mind is whether some of them, like the movie actress aforementioned, have earned such a blessing, have proved their right to lose part of their possessions.

WE HEARD the crickets chirping out here last night and knew at last that summer had come. The sharp, insistent whistle of the crickets in the long grass is a sure sign of summer, whatever the weather may be. You can hear them everywhere but you can never come up on them, no matter how lightly you walk, how careful you are to make no sound. Just as you think you must surely be within a foot or so of that penetrating note, suddenly it ceases. Somehow the cricket has sensed your presence. We gave up trying to find them long ago and have no idea what they look like. They have become just a sound with us, the drowsy note of summer.

WE CAN RECOGNIZE all the seasons out here by the sound, and would know them if we were robbed of all our senses but hearing. The thundering chorus of the frogs in the swamp down below here—that is spring. The cry of the crickets, vibrating across the fields, means summer. The thud of acorns on the roof and the rustling of brown, crisp oak leaves everywhere come only in autumn. And the drip of rain from naked branches and the tramp of hoofs on the floor of the warm barn show that winter is here.

WE COULD tell the seasons out here, indeed, if you robbed us of hearing and left us only our sense of smell. We could identify every month by its smell. Reeking wet earth smell, that is January. Pungent smell of snowdrops and sweet smell of the first primroses mean February. The smell of the first new grass comes in March. Scent of the white lilacs, ever so faint, and the subtle essence of daffodils, that is April. The heavier, richer canvas smell mingling with the warm smell of broom can rise in May. June brings the sweet smell of new-cut hay filling the mind with memories of better days. With July comes that dry, full smell of midsummer which is the mingled essence of brown grass, flowers and wind that has swept over parched land.

BY MID-AUGUST there is another smell, the smell of completed growth, of apples ripening and corn in the sheaf. You can tell September at one sniff by the brown, mature smell of it, the melancholy tinge of autumn, of chill and dew. October brings a jolly smell, but the smell of smoke from bush fires and late apples newly boxed. November brings its grey misty smell of mist and vapor rising from the ground, of rotting leaves and dead grass, and good barnyard stuff strewn on the fields by George Pudding. But bray is the smell of December, the smell of a new coat of paint on the fireplace, of holly cut, of fresh paint on new toys. It is a great thing to have a nose and better still to be out here and have something worthwhile to smell.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

JUNE 13, 1907

From The Times Files

Capt. J. W. Troup, general superintendent of the Pacific Coast Steamship Service of the C.P.R., returned to the city yesterday morning after a visit to Alaska, where he was in charge of attending the meeting of the Light-house Board of Canada. Many interesting matters came up before the board, where he was in charge of the supreme importance upon which Capt. Troup brings news to the city, is with reference to the erection of wireless stations along the Coast.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity—Moderate to fresh southerly winds, generally fair and a little warmer.

There will be no address presented to M.H. Prince Fushimi on arrival in this city. This is owing to the fact that he is not receiving addresses during his visit to Canada. Official information to this effect has been received at Government House from Ottawa. In consequence of this intimation there will be no civic address prepared, nor will the native Japanese present one.

Steamer Spokane will make her first trip of the season from Seattle to Alaska to-morrow, calling at this port. The run is an excursion and one that will occupy close on to a fortnight.

Seth J. Armstrong, the manager of the Superior Baseball Club, of Seattle, a strictly amateur organization, spent yesterday in the city completing arrangements whereby Victoria will have weekly exhibition baseball games with the best teams procurable from the neighboring states across the line.

REFUNDS

To the Editor:—At a discussion last evening one of the members suggested that the action of the Orange Lodge in Toronto in handing back the $5 donation of Sir Henry Thornton to the Dominion Government, furnished a precedent which would permit Mr. Bennett to hand back the $1,000 cheque to the Provincial Government, and that Hon. Canon Hinchliffe could see to it that it was returned to the proper government fund.

A CORRECTION

To the Editor:—In a recent issue of your paper you reported that there was a court case between the Cameron Lumber Company of Victoria and the Royal Insurance Company Limited, and in this connection I wish to point out that this company is not interested in the matter and I shall be obliged if you will make the necessary correction in an imminent issue of your publication, because considerable inconvenience and annoyance are being felt by reason of your having made a statement which is not correct.

Kindly give this matter the attention that is necessary and advise.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

To the Editor:—This time I think Premier Bennett is right in requiring that the Okanagan fruit growers use Canadian-made machinery and equipment instead of British-made in their proposed refrigeration plant, as reported in your paper on Saturday. The Dominion Government has been to the plea of the Okanagan growers and passed tariff and other protective regulations whereby the Canadian people are compelled to buy the fruit of the Okanagan growers at higher prices than would otherwise obtain—and for the profit of the Okanagan growers. The Okanagan growers in return is that they should buy the products of the Canadian manufacturers, who supply the consumers for their higher price.

fruit—and who approved of the fruit tariff protection.

There are too many people around who don't like taking their own medicine.

PUBLIC POLITICAL STOCKTAKING

To the Editor:—Facing a provincial debt of $150,000,000 the people of British Columbia must also face a deficit in the 1933 session of parliament instead of a balanced budget. Why? Because we have voted to power two sets of politicians (Conservative and Liberal) to run our business. Both have proved unfit to do so and proved beyond any reasonable doubt to be worse than complete failures at our directors, running the largest business of the province. Combined almost equally between them, they have dragged the Province of British Columbia down $140,000,000 in debt plus an annual increased budget since 1903 to three times its size in 1932. Has party politics proved to be worth $140,000,000 to the people of British Columbia? We must also face an election in 1933 or 1935. It is more than likely both parties will contest it. Are we fully prepared to vote on the issue? Are we prepared to trust the same politicians as our directors again? (that goes for both parties). Are we prepared to give the reins of power to plunge British Columbia further in debt? What will the final cost be? Number party is trying to bring British Columbia out of this huge debt which have jointly crushed the faith of people here. But there is abundant left that British Columbia can be brought out of this colossal debt but not by the present or past management. Exit party politics.

SAWMILL TO BE REBUILT

Losses in Fire at North Vancouver Are Estimated at $500,000

Canadian Press
North Vancouver, June 13.—Losses estimated to-day at $500,000, resulted from a fire of unknown origin which Saturday evening razed the sawmill and shingle mill and burner conveyor of the Capilano Timber Company and scorched about one-third of the company's dock. Stocks consisting of lumber and shingles valued at $20,000, which were stored in adjoining buildings and the mill yard, were saved.

Manager J. A. MacLellan to-day reported the loss was fully covered by insurance and reconstruction of the razed buildings and replacement of the large quantity of machinery would be commenced very shortly.

LOSE JOBS

About seventy-five men were thrown out of employment by the fire, which was one of the most spectacular in the annals of North Shore industry. The sawmills and shingle mills on all parts of the mill yard and all roads leading to the scene of the blaze were congested with motor traffic, and several hundred men were lined up with cars from which occupants had an unobstructed view of the flames, which at times shot over fifty feet into the air.

Workers reported the fire appeared to have started in the shingle mill under No. 1 machine, which is directly over the boiler-room. Mill hands, seeing the flames coming through the heavy flooring, blew the mill whistle as a fire signal and so fast did the flames spread that they had to run for their lives. A fire engine, which was almost trapped in the inferno and he jumped through the filling room window to safety. All of the fifty mill employees lost their clothing and tools. The fire spread so fast there was no time to save anything and they had to use all exits to make their escape.

STARTED AT 9.35 P.M.

Flames were first noticed at 9.35 p.m. and five minutes later the huge building was a mass of flames. It was reported one of the workmen had been trapped, but on an immediate check-up being made, it was ascertained all had escaped.

Both city and district fire departments responded to the alarm, but by the time the spark was put out it was obvious there was no possibility of saving the shingle and saw mills, which were one unit. The mill sprinkler system was also in operation and the fireboat Orion arrived shortly after the outbreak. It took up a position between the Capilano Timber Company's and Vancouver Creek sawmills and the docks, and also sent several streams on to the west side of the blaze. City apparatus brought the booster pump into action and by that medium threw several streams into the centre of the burning mass.

SCOW TOWED AWAY

It was fortunate there was little breeze at the time or the planing mill, dry kilns and shingle sheds to the north of the sawmill would have been in serious danger. A scowload of shingles at the dock was removed by tugboats, summoned to the scene by company officials.

The intense heat caused the two large boilers in the boiler-room to glow off themselves, thereby saving the possibility of serious danger for the fire fighters. Both city and district departments rushed all available men to the fire, and company hands and numerous volunteers assisted them.

Up to the time of the fire, the mill had been operating day and night. It is expected some of the men thrown out of employment will be used in clearing away the debris and reconstructing the plant. Twelve shingle machines and other valuable equipment fell prey to the flames. The management to-day reported the utmost speed would be resorted to in getting the plant into operation again, but it would require several months.

IS MEMBER OF NOTED FAMILY

G. Fred Birks, Sydney
Rotarian, Related to Famous
Canadian Jewelers

Says Defeat of Lang Government Means Progress For Australia

Away back in the early '50's two branches of a Yorkshire family emigrated to widely-flung parts of the empire, one leaving Great Britain for Canada and the other for Australia.

The name of Birks is known from one end of Canada to the other, founded as a firm of Montreal jewelers and controlling branches in all sections of this Dominion.

The other branch went out to Australia and is now represented by G. Fred Birks of Sydney, of the wholesale firm of druggists of that name.

AUSTRALIAN COUSINS
"We are known as the Australian cousins of the Birks family," said Mr. Birks, past district governor, who is here from Sydney for the Rotary International Assembly.

Mr. Birks crossed the Pacific from Australia in company with Sydney W. Pascoe, president of Rotary International, and is the only Australian representative at the convention here.

Hailing from New South Wales, Mr. Birks is naturally greatly interested in the outcome of the election which resulted in the return of the coalition of the United Australia party under Premier B. S. Stevens by such a large majority over the Lang party.

NATIONAL CRISIS
"In such a national crisis there was nothing else for the people to do," remarked Mr. Birks, in discussing the New South Wales election.

He added that Australia had been hampered by the policy of Premier Lang, who had refused to pay interest on the state debt to the British bondholders, and had placed every obstacle in the path of the Commonwealth government when the Lyons administration proceeded to settle the state's obligations and then sought to collect.

The Lang government, he said, passed a bill which put an additional 10 per cent levy on capital, already heavily taxed. One then led to another to create an intolerable situation and finally Premier Lang was forced to resign by Governor Sir Philip Game.

The election followed with the crushing defeat of the Lang party. With the Australian states now co-operating with the Commonwealth government in an effort to solve the difficult problems faced by the country, conditions will undoubtedly improve in Australia, Mr. Birks believes. Australia, in common with the rest of the world, has been passing through the worst depression ever known.

"I believe it has brought the people back to earth," said Mr. Birks. "We have all been living too extravagantly. It has been unpleasant, but it is going to be good for us. We shall live on simpler lines, work harder and also produce more."

PRESS WOMEN
AT E.P. RANCHTo Be Guests at Prince of Wales's Ranch During Convention

Calgary, June 13.—The entertainment committee of the Triennial of the Canadian Women's Press Club, to be held here June 27 to July 1, has arranged that the visitors may see some of the first white women of the southern prairies, women who came to a primitive country more than half a century ago, veteran missionaries and ranchers, and one of the few living originals of the first famous North West Mounted Police "March of '74."

An informal reception will be held on the evening of June 27, the hostesses being the Calgary branch of the C.W.P.C. and the Canadian Authors' Association. The next day a luncheon is planned, and in the evening there will be a civic dinner with an "old timers" programme. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, has been invited to pay a visit to his "home town" and be a speaker on this occasion.

A sixty-eight-mile drive, June 29, will take the Press Club to the "E. P. Ranch," owned by the Prince of Wales. On arrival the visitors will be welcomed by Professor W. L. Carlyle, the ranch manager, and Mrs. Carlyle, and the high tea served. Refreshments provided by the ranch and the High River Board of Trade. The return trip will be made in the long twilight of the western evening, through the heart of the foothill ranches, the famous "Bar U" and others, through the magnificent Turner Valley oil fields, and home by a route which skirts the Sarcee Indian Reserve. It will conclude with a supper party at the home of Mrs. Nellie L. McClung.

On June 30, the members will be guests of the board of trade for dinner, in the evening the two Calgary papers, the Herald and the Alberta, will be hosts at a dinner. After this the various clubs will put on their "stunts." On Friday, July 1, all leave for Banff, guests of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the day.

Milk Supply at Sunshine Camp

At the meeting of the Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter I.O.O.F. held at the home of Mrs. Fred Spencer, Beach Drive, Saturday afternoon, a standing vote of sympathy was passed to Mrs. Andrew Wright, and Mrs. Sanderson-McGowan, in their recent bereavement. Mrs. Wright, the regent, presided, and four members were present.

The chapter voted a donation of $50 to the Sunshine Camp at Sooke, to be used for the purchase of milk. Fifteen dollars was also voted to the educational work of the order, and it was decided to donate several books to the Bank Street School. Arrangements were completed for Alexandra Rose Day, and Mrs. B. Beckett was appointed the chapter's representative to the Victoria committee of the Canadian Council of Child and Family Welfare.

Mrs. B. Jordan will act as regent during the absence of Mrs. Ellis, who is leaving for England on a few months' visit.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BETWEEN MEAL LUNCHING
INEVITABLY DULLS APPETITE

Mother is given to making extreme statements. In their eyes the wretched baby never sleeps, the appetite never eats, the wilful child never obeys.

Mrs. F. J. has an eating problem in her home. "My boy has no appetite at all. He eats hardly anything. I do not see how he stays alive. He wants to run and play all day and can hardly be dragged in to meals. In spite of this he is healthy, rosy, and full of energy. What shall I do?"

MAKE NOTES

First of all, find yourself a notebook and each day enter in it honestly and without bias every bite of food the child consumes. Note the cookie, the half an apple, the piece of gingerbread, the ice cream soda—all the things which you are probably overlooking—and at the end of a week sort them out into meals, and you will probably find that the sum total is a full portion for the day. The child who has no appetite and never eats can hardly be rosy, healthy and full of energy. The picture is too distorted. What you probably mean is that he never eats at mealtimes.

There are lots of reasons for appetitelessness. Fatigue, anemia, over-feeding of rich foods, feeding too often in the day, or offering too many sweets may apply to the baby on a bottle as well as the runabout.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS

Some of this appetitelessness is probably chained tightly to the amount of attention the mother bestows upon her child's diet. It is admirable and essential that she feed him according to the right standards. But the emphasis upon the necessity for eating so much of this or that destroys something that is essential to a good appetite. The adult neurotic who puts his attention on every food he eats, weighing its advantages and the possibilities of its disagreeing, grows more dyspeptic. The child who must eat every bit of cereal, drink every drop of milk, and consume every spoonful of his vegetables comes to look upon food with distaste. The business of eating becomes a monotonous ceremony inflicted upon him by his fussy parents.

STOP WORRYING

The leaflet offered by this department called "Physical and Psychological Reasons for Appetitelessness," should be clear up for the parent who reads Johnny's body that needs attention or his mind that needs distraction from the duty of eating. There is no charge for this leaflet, but a self-addressed, stamped envelope should be sent with each request to Mrs. Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Whenever a mother becomes obsessed with the idea that her child is not eating, it is absolutely certain that her emphasis upon food will aggravate the very condition she is intent upon improving. The only advice Mrs. F. J. seems to need is to stop worrying about food, and let her baby talk about it. Here is obviously one of those children who eats on the run. It is this habit that needs to be changed.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART

An ounce of prevention in the matter of sunburn is worth a quart of cure any day—but there are occasions when the sun takes the week-enders unaware and burns and burns and burns right through two or three layers of epidermis with painful results. It has taken these emergency sunburns into consideration and made oils and creams to soothe and quell the angry red of the irritated skin.

If you have an emergency sunburn there are a few things to remember not to do. Do not wash it. Even cream it. Cream it with an oily cream. The caution to put the cream on gently is unnecessary because moist sunburns are painfully sore. The seriousness of sunburn should not be minimized. If the case is extreme a physician, because broken skin may be easily infected. Few people consider a sunburn as serious as a burn by scalding water yet the results are practically the same and call for the same treatment.

The best way to avoid serious sunburn is to prepare the skin for what may happen. Use these sun-tan oils before you go to the beach, motoring or wherever you are going to be exposed to old Sol. The best way is to oil yourself to the waist before you put on your bathing suit. Do not miss rubbing the oil or cream on your legs, too.

The new sun-tan creams and oils are made so that they turn the red of a sun burn into a lovely golden tan. The sun will dry your skin and take out some of the necessary oils so you must replace those with the applications of artificial oils. One oil made by a famous French couturier became extremely popular on the Riviera where bathing suits have their briefest edition. It is now bottled in a handy size into your beach bag.

This summer's shade of sun tan is not as dark as last summer's. When the vogue for sun-tan skins began, we all went to the extreme and became as nearly chocolate colored as possible, damaging our epidermis by constant burning and making wrinkles appear by drying up the pores by constant exposure to the sun.

This season you must have a sun tan by all means. But enough is enough. You can control it by using creams and oils and by wearing large hats and sun capes on your bathing suits. Find your most becoming shade and stick to it.

SISTER
KITCHEN

Perhaps you belong to a family that likes to eat dinner on the porch or in the garden during the hot months of summer. The man or woman who has spent the day in an office, or the woman who has spent a good share of her day in the kitchen, or anyone who has been indoors all day, will find infinite pleasure in meals served in the fresh air.

The first consideration in planning meals for serving away from the family dining-room is to reduce the number of dishes to a minimum. A one-dish combination of some sort with a salad and dessert simplifies serving as well as dish-washing. Very often the salad can be put on the table in an attractive bowl for each member to help himself "right on his plate." If you use compartment plates, the salad plate is quite unnecessary.

Casserole dishes combining meat and vegetables, fish chowders and meat and vegetable pies are excellent main dishes for dinners "al fresco." They are served with a tomato salad and a simple dessert made with milk, such as a floating island, offers a well-balanced meal that is appetizing and easily prepared.

Veal and vegetable pie is made with seasonable vegetables and also takes care of the bread-stuff usually included in family dinner menus. The dish served with a tomato salad and a simple dessert made with milk, such as a floating island, offers a well-balanced meal that is appetizing and easily prepared.

Bread and butter sometimes presents a problem in porch and garden meals if served separately. Bread and butter sandwiches or hot buttered rolls will be found a most satisfactory solution to this because they combine two foods in one.

One pound lean veal, 1 cup tiny cooked onions, 1 cup diced cooked carrots, 1 cup cooked green peas, 2 cups cooked potato marbles, 2 teaspoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper, 1½ cups flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, milk.

Choose veal from small part of leg since it is usually cheaper and the meat must be cut in small pieces anyway. Cover with boiling water and simmer until tender but not broken. Add salt and let cool in stock, over night if convenient. Remove fat and bone from meat, making neat pieces for serving.

Arrange meat in a buttered casserole. Remove fat from stock and strain through cheesecloth. There should be about 2 cups of stock. The liquid in which vegetables, except the onions, were cooked can also be used. Melt butter, stir in flour and when mixture bubbles, add stock, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and season with salt and pepper. Add prepared vegetables to meat in casserole and pour over sauce. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in shortening and cut in milk with a knife. Use enough milk to make a soft dough.

Roll on a floured molding board and cut with a small biscuit cutter. Cover top of mixture in casserole with biscuits and bake in a hot oven until biscuits are thoroughly baked and brown on top. Allow about thirty-five minutes for baking. The biscuits because the sauce, meat and vegetables retard the baking. Serve from baking dish.

To-morrow's Menu
Breakfast—Orange juice, cereal cooked with raisins, cream, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Stuffed eggs with beet greens, rye bread and peanut butter sandwiches, cherry shortcake, milk, tea.
Dinner—Beef loaf with browned pears, parsley, potatoes, creamed cauliflower, radishes and green onions, pineapple tapioca, milk, coffee.

St. Michael's Old
Boys Get Together

Twenty-five old boys of St. Michael's School attended the second annual dinner of their association at the Oak Bay Hotel Saturday evening.

Dinner was followed by a general meeting at which a provisional constitution, drawn up by M. Bridgman and K. C. Symons, was adopted and adopted. Officers elected for the ensuing year were: W. Y. Higgs, president; Logan Mayhew, vice-president; Jack Holmes, secretary-treasurer, and social committee, D. Goodwin, J. Clark and M. Bridgman.

Prior to the close of the meeting, a telegram from Kyrle Symons, headmaster of St. Michael's, who was unavoidably absent, was read to the old boys. Mr. Symons wished his former pupils good luck.

Aboard the yacht Bolande thirty old boys yesterday visited Montague Harbor, Galiano Island. The boat left All Day at noon, reaching its destination two hours later. The party spent a delightful afternoon swimming and hiking and returned to the city late in the evening.

BARRY JONES
IS CRITICIZEDSo-called Physical Mannerisms in New Play Annoy
London Critics

Canadian Press
London, June 13.—"Queer Cattle," written by Philip Johnson, which was produced at the Haymarket Theatre, London, by Basil Dean, actor, producer, manager, stage director and dramatic author, ran but a short time and was withdrawn. Barry Jones, well known in Canada, took the leading role, but did not make a brilliant success of it, as he has done with so many characters he has enacted on the stage. E. A. Baughan, drama critic for The News-Chronicle, writing of the first night of the play, says:

"There were titters when Barry Jones, as an Enoch Arden, tenderly carried Mary Ellis to her bed, and at the end of the play, after the players had been applauded a raucous shout of 'Rubbish!' heralded the gramophone playing of God Save the King. I am glad Philip Johnson did not take his call, for it would probably have discouraged him. He is a Macfiefield shopkeeper who has written a number of plays. Some of them have been produced at the Liverpool Repertory Theatre, and 'Queer Cattle' is one of three bought by Basil Dean. I have been told on good authority that it is not the best of the three.

"After all, it is very difficult to give a new twist to the old Enoch Arden story unless it be treated cynically. In this version, when her first husband appears after being supposed to have died in France, Claire Furber wants to relive her old romance.

"Women are little cattle, we all know, but Claire Furber deserves the author's impolite adjective. The man, Dennis, has lost his memory and all his past is hidden by a thick veil, but he does love her, whereas her second husband, after being told that she means to live with him because she loves him, leaves her bedroom. Dennis, having no such scruples, climbs in the window, and the two verbally recall the delights of their life together.

"In the morning Dennis does the usual sacrifice and tells her his memories, and so far from wishing to start their old romance again, he simply hates the idea of going through the same boredom.

"Barry Jones, who played the part, did it very thoroughly, but this clever actor must try to conquer his angular movements, and physical mannerisms. This scene was, perhaps, the best in the play, which was able to arrive quite easily at a happy ending because Dennis and Claire had never been married.

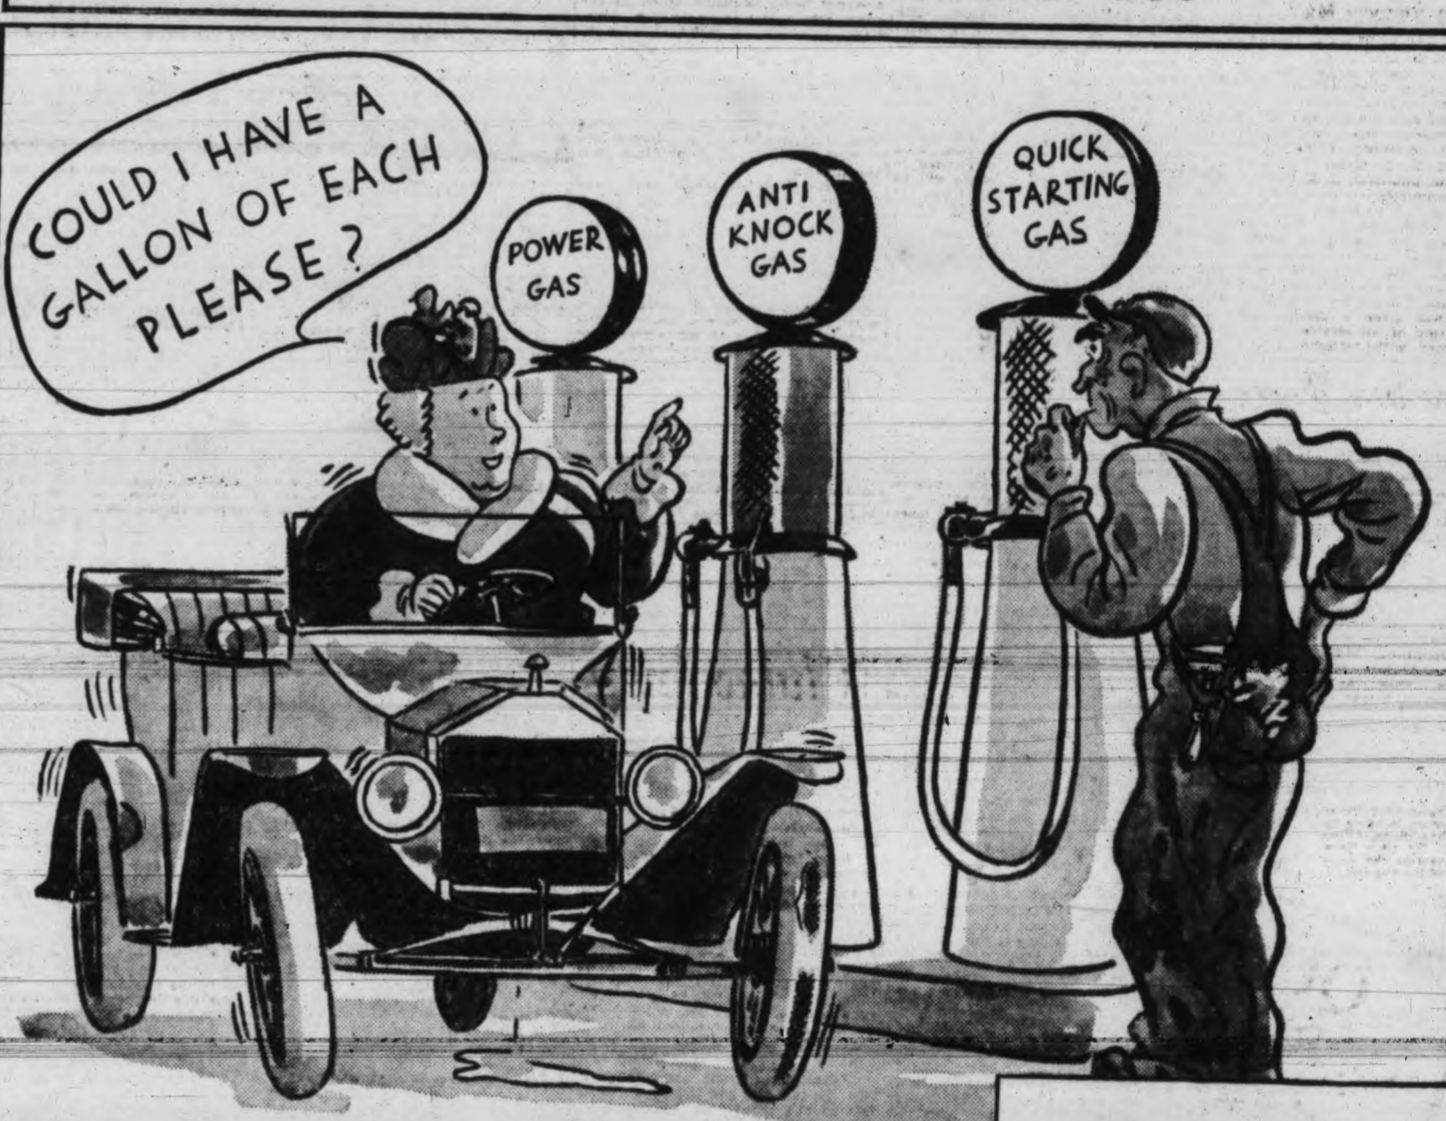

"There were moments of intense dullness which Ellis Jeffreys, as a man-

Even this won't do it!

You can't remove the engine waste from "one-feature" gasolines

ALL of the "one-feature" fuels cause engine waste. Made to do just one thing well, somewhere they fail you.

They'll buck in starting. Or give you poor mileage. No pull. Sluggish pick-up. All because they're strong in one but weak in other kinds of energy.

The three vital energy groups

Not gassy energy; not sluggish, slow-burning energy. They are wasteful. What is needed are three vital groups from the very heart of petroleum: Quick energy, power energy, and anti-knock energy. You get these now in Shell 3-energy gasoline.

Here's a motor fuel that really makes a difference. You notice it. All the power you ever found in a so-called "power" fuel. All the speed. Yet just as quick-starting as with any gasoline.

And if you're interested in anti-knock

In repeated tests Shell 3-energy gasoline proved BETTER in anti-knock rating than any non-premium fuel being sold today!

Fill your tank with this amazing new 3-energy fuel. Learn why it's the most talked about gasoline in years. Shell service stations and Shell dealers.

SEALED TANKS! For your protection, Shell 3-energy is colored golden amber. Every station tank that is filled with it is sealed. You know what you're getting from the yellow Shell pump.

SHELL 3-energy Gasoline

The energy you need in a hurry—for starts, shifts, bursts of speed

The power flow for miles of smooth, economical driving

Tests proved this gasoline higher in octane value than any other non-premium fuel

Many Miserable Existences of Boys and Girls Who Rush Into Marriage End in Suicide; Others Drag On for Years Amid Rags and Starvation—What Shall Be Done About Them?

CHILD MARRIAGE is a tragical thing. We all agree about that. We get terribly excited and indignant over it when we read about it in "Mother" and "The Nation" and other magazines. But when it happens in our country, though it occurs every day, and its results are just as heartbreaking as they are in India.

A few weeks ago a boy and girl who live near where I do got married. He was "epileptic." She was barely seventeen. He earned $6 a week and had an invalid mother to whose support he had to contribute.

But, anyway, they thought themselves terribly in love and so they got married. They rented a cheap room, bought a few sticks of furniture on the installment plan and then set down on the edge of the bed—they couldn't afford a chair—and set themselves to the impossible task of trying to budget their insufficient income over their needs. Two dollars a week for the room. Two dollars a week for the installment man. Two dollars a week for mother. That left only $2 a week for food and clothes and light and earfare and medicine, and all the little necessities of life.

For three agonizing weeks these children wrestled with this problem in high finance. Two dollars a week rent. Two dollars a week for the installment man. Two dollars a week for mother. Two dollars for food and clothes and light and earfare and—

They were always hungry. Never enough to eat. Their poor, thin rags of clothes were in tatters, their feet on the ground. There was no prospect of any better job. They were sick with worry and anxiety. The future stretched before them a bleak road of black despair.

They were too childish and ignorant to know how to solve a grown man's and woman's problems. Their shoulders were too weak to bear the burden that they had laid upon them. And so the only way out of their troubles that they could see was through the dark door of death. The little kid husband and the little kid wife put their arms around each other and stood before the cheap little mirror they had bought. "Shoot me first," the little girl said, but the boy loved her too well for that. He sent a bullet crashing through his own brain. His arm fell away from his little sweetheart, and another child marriage was ended.

You could weep your eyes out over this pitiful story of the boy-husband who killed himself because he married too soon, before he was ready to meet the obligations of marriage. But I could tell you a thousand stories sadder than this of the tragedies of child marriage, as they come to me every day in the letters of unhappy men and women.

Sometimes it is a letter from a girl who married at fourteen or fifteen and who at twenty is a worn-out, dragged-out old woman with three or four children, who is bitterly dissatisfied with life and resentful of the fate she has brought upon herself. She has long since recovered from the passing infatuation of adolescence that sent her into premature widowhood and discovered that life is no more the real thing than skimmed milk is champagne. She knows that she does not even like the man she is tied to, that they have nothing in common except the common misery of knowing that they are both misbegotten, and that they are doomed to pay with a lifetime of loneliness and unhappiness for the mistake they committed in their childhood.

Worse still, this woman who married too soon gets no joy out of her children. She was not ready for motherhood physically, mentally, nor spiritually, and so her children have been a burden to her. They have been a drag upon her. They have kept her from doing the things she wanted to do, and as she has walked the cold nights when her feet ached to be dancing, when she has pushed the perambulator when she yearned to be out jockeying with the other boys and girls, she has cursed the folly of her youthful marriage and set that she has missed the best of life in missing her playmate.

Sometimes it is a man who tells me his side of the tragedy of the child marriage. He was a boy of seventeen or eighteen or nineteen. At college. Unusually talented. His family had high hopes about him. Ambitious. He was going to be a great lawyer or doctor or business executive. But he met a pretty little flapper and fell head over heels in love with her. Could think of nothing but her. Wanted her as badly as he did a sports car. Or before that a motorcycle. Or before that a bicycle. Or before that an air rifle. Or before that—but he had forgotten the many things he had wanted and for which he had lost his taste.

Anyway, what was a career, or success, or honor, or anything compared to love? So he and the girl ran away and got married and he had to give up college and put aside all thoughts of a career and go to work at the first job he could get. And that ended what he might have been and made him what he was. For babies came and there were bills and bills and bills, and fight as hard as he could, he could barely keep the wolf from the door. Never a chance to even try for a better position because he couldn't risk the one he had, however poor.

Old before his time. Shabby. Discouraged. Beaten by life. Not even a happy home by way of recompense. For hard times and struggle do not make for domestic peace. Nor have children enough self-control and tact to know how to deal with each other. They squabble over things that older people would not notice.

Nearly always in these child marriages the husband outgrows the wife. Then comes divorce, or a life together that is like being chained to the corpse of the one you once loved. And only too often they meet when it is too late, the ones whom Nature destined for their mates.

A tragical thing these child marriages. What are we going to do about them?

Indian Legends

1—HIAWATHA
"Hiawatha," written by Longfellow, is a famous and interesting poem, but it is based upon several legends put together in a single story.

He was now called Hiawatha

The Iroquois legend about Hiawatha runs like this:
There lived in the sky a god known as Ta-ten-wa-wagon. One day he heard a cry from the earth below. Looking down, he saw a group of men and women. They were in terror of the wild beasts and giants of the time. The god led the sky, and led the people to places where they would be safe.

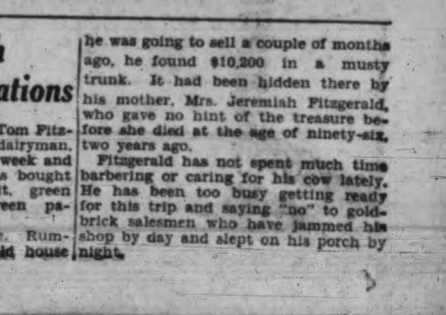

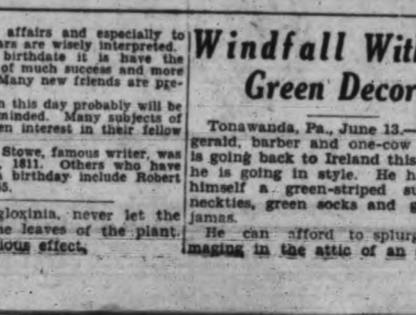

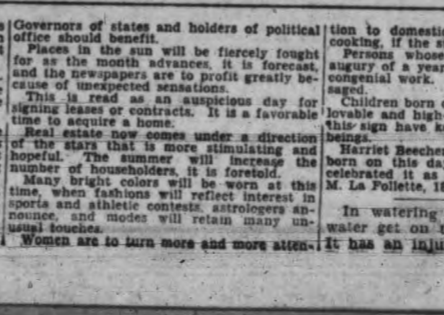

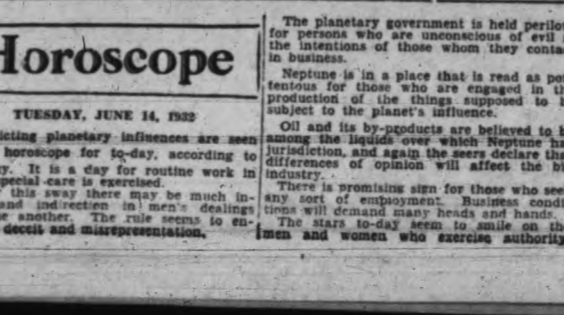

After a time, the god of the sky decided to live with the people of the earth. He took the shape of a human being, and chose an Indian maiden as his wife. The god was now called Hiawatha, and made his home on the shore of a fair lake. A child was born in the wigwam of Hiawatha, and she was called Minnehaha.

All went well until an alien came from the north. An enemy was coming to kill the Onondagas, and to burn their dwellings.

Hiawatha told the chiefs to call all the tribes of the region together for a council. The Mohawks came, the Oneidas came, the Cayugas came, and the Senecas came.
After the tribes had arrived, Hiawatha and his daughter, Minnehaha, paddled to the scene in a white canoe. Suddenly there was a rushing noise, and a huge bird was seen coming down from heaven.
The bird alighted at the feet of Hiawatha, and Minnehaha seated herself on its back.
"Farewell, my father," she said, and then the bird spread its wings and flew upward. Above the clouds they rose, to the home of the Manitou.
Then Hiawatha spoke:
"The time is near when I, too, must return to my home in the sky. So listen with care to my last words."
Then he gave careful advice to the tribes, saying:
"The warriors of the north are strong. They can defeat any single tribe which is here. If you wish power and safety, I bid you to unite. Come together, and act as one. Have one council fire, one war club, one pipe of peace."
After speaking, Hiawatha took his seat in the white canoe. Sweet strains of music burst upon the air, and the canoe slowly rose into the sky.
Thus did the Iroquois explain the beginning of the league of the tribes, known as the "Five Nations."
(This story should be listed under "Indians" in your scrapbook.)

Horoscope

TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1932

Conflicting planetary influences are seen in the horoscope for to-day, according to astrology. It is a day for routine work in which special care is exercised.

Under this way there may be much intrigue and indirectness in men's dealings with one another. The rule seems to encourage deceit and misrepresentation.

The planetary government is held perilous for persons who are unconscious of evil in the intentions of those whom they contact in business.

Neptune is in a place that is read as portentous for those who are engaged in the production of the things supposed to be subject to the planet's influence.

Oil and its by-products are believed to be among the liquids over which Neptune has jurisdiction, and again the seers declare that differences of opinion will affect the big industry.

There is promising sign for those who seek any sort of employment. Business conditions will demand many hands and hands. The stars to-day seem to smile on the men and women who exercise authority.

Governors of states and holders of political office should benefit.

Places in the sun will be fiercely fought for as the month advances. It is forecast, and the newspapers are to profit greatly because of unexpected sensations.

This is read as an auspicious day for signing leases or contracts. It is a favorable time to acquire a home.

Real estate now comes under a direction of the stars that is more stimulating and hopeful. The summer will increase the number of householders. It is forecast.

Many bright colors will be worn at this time, when fashions will reflect interest in romance, and modes will retain many unusual touches.

Women are to turn more and more attention to domestic affairs and especially to cooking. If the stars are wisely interpreted, persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of much success and more congenial work. Many new friends are predicted.

Children born on this day probably will be lovable and high-minded. Many subjects of this sign have been interested in their fellow beings.

Harriet Beecher Stowe, famous writer, was born on this day, 1811. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Robert M. La Follette, 1855.

In watering gladioli, never let the water get on the leaves of the plant. It has an injurious effect.

Windfall With Green Decorations

Tonawanda, Pa., June 13.—Tom Fitzgerald, barber and one-cow dairyman, is going back to Ireland this week and he is going in style. He has bought himself a green-striped suit, green neckties, green socks and green pajamas.

He can afford to splurge. Rumormongers in the attic of an old house, he was going to sell a couple of months ago, he found $10,200 in a musty trunk. It had been hidden there by his mother, Mrs. Jeremiah Fitzgerald, who gave no hint of the treasure before she died at the age of ninety-six, two years ago.

Fitzgerald has not spent much time barbering or caring for his cow lately. He has been too busy getting ready for this trip and saying "no" to gold-brick salesmen who have jammed his shop by day and slept on his porch by night.

COBBLE HILL FAIR CHANGES ARRANGED

Cobble Hill, June 13.—The Shawigan Farmers' Institute will hold its Fall Fair on Thursday, September 8. Changes in the programme, made at a recent meeting, include addition of classes to the fruit section, for three varieties of pears and yellow plums. All vegetables were reclassified as "garden" and alfalfa in sheep must be cured.

The domestic science division will have classes for three kinds of home-made candy. Several classes were eliminated from the ladies' work section, to increase the competition in the sections remaining.

The juveniles will compete in a new class for posters and Guides and Brownies will be allotted a section for candy-making. A noxious weed competition will replace the section for pressed foliage. Special prizes for collections of British Empire postage stamps will be awarded by the I.O.E.

The comic dog show will be abandoned this year, but a grackles will be a feature of the fair. H. T. Barrett, and members of the Shawigan Riding Club will be in charge of this entertainment.

The Institute will visit the Dominion Experimental Farm at Sidney in July.

Members desiring inspection of potatoes for certification were advised to register with the secretary of the institute, who would make arrangements for a visit by a government inspector.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. C. Nightingale and Mrs. G. C. Cheeke.

Headache

Careful research has shown that the great majority of persistent headaches are caused by uncorrected astigmatism or by irritation by the chemical rays in light. Both of these conditions can be corrected by the use of properly fitted glasses; so why continue to suffer needlessly?

WILD ANIMAL CARGO ARRIVES

Jungle Cats, Monkeys and Birds From India Reach New York

Panther, Infuriated By Storm, Attacks Owner at Sea

New York, June 13.—A few minutes after the Roosevelt freighter Unioi tied up at her West Sixteenth Street pier, the ordinarily prosaic and business-like pier began to ring with a bedlam of jungle sounds.

As large enclosed packing cases began piling up on the end of the pier, the deep-throated growls of jungle cats, the shrill squealing and peeping of monkeys, the calls of storks, horn-bills, ibises and cranes filled the enclosure. Dealers and buyers moved among the crates, discussing the birds and animals, and pausing now and then to warn curious strollers not to go too close to the horn-bills' cages, or to feed the monkeys too generously.

Fred Bartels of the Bartels Bird and Animal Company, Inc., 217 Fulton Street, and Frank Cuttitta, an employee, went to India on March 5 to collect the animals. At inland Karachi they began a long trek across the country to Calcutta, buying from natives, landed potatoes and others who had birds and animals to sell.

RARE BIRD IS PRIZE OF CARGO

They brought in all ninety specimens, including twenty-two demiole cranes, two black panthers, two Bengal tigers, eight large adjutant storks, six spoon-bills, six glossy ibises, two pied horn-bills and a rare bird known as the rhinoceros horn-bill.

Mr. Bartels said he had made five expeditions to India, three to Africa and had been all through South America in search of animals, but the rhinoceros horn-bill was the first he ever had brought back. It is a stately black bird, trimmed in red and yellow, with a long, dangerous beak and a thick horn projecting for several inches above the head. The top of the horn is about two and a half feet above the ground when the bird stands erect.

Mr. Bartels said the difficult trip from Karachi to Calcutta was only half of the trouble he and Cuttitta had encountered. Out of Calcutta, with the cases strapped securely on the deck and forward, the Unioi pitched through high seas, with tropical winds howling through the live cargo and the decks sloping and bucking until the supercargo thought the crates would be torn loose.

Attending to the inadvisability of walking among wild animals on the deck of a buffeted ship, Mr. Bartels exhibited a harassed and swollen-cigared appearance, scratched and weary, the results of having been thrown against the cage of one of the jungle cats.

On the first night out, he said, he had to watch closely the large male panther, because the rolling of the ship agitated the cat and made him surly. In the middle of the second night, on one of his rounds of inspection, he heard the panther scraping at the shutter covering the front bars of the cage.

AFRAID BY ANGRY PANTHER

He went to investigate, feeling his way among the cages. The wind howled, and he pulled his way along, clasping the cases to hold himself erect. As he passed among the cages, he was hearing the panthers and tigers he had plenty of space to get through. But as he passed before the male panther the shutter suddenly gave way before the cat's efforts and fell to the deck.

In a flash the cat reached a long paw through and caught Bartels firmly on the leg. His trousers were ripped away and the claws imbedded in the flesh. He fell and the cat struck again, tearing his forearm and his face above the right eye. He managed to roll out of reach and got to his feet. The panther was in a rage, growling and roaring in anger, but he quieted down when Bartels got the shutter back in place.

Mr. Bartels said he had hoped to get some female elephants this year, but he had found an embargo on them in India. Elephants are scarce and the government is trying to reduce the number taken out and at the same time increase the number on the continent by prohibiting exportation of females.

George Wohlschlag, a dealer of 180 Greenwich Street, met the Unioi at the dock. He had on board a shipment of 800 rhesus monkeys and twenty cranes, including white Asiatic demiole and various varieties. Forty-five of the female monkeys became mothers during the voyage from Calcutta, but only two of the baby monkeys were living when the ship reached New York.

Other cases in the Bartels collection held thirty wolverines, rhesus and other varieties of monkeys, and fifteen talking minnows, small birds that not only can talk but can whistle any tune accurately after hearing it once.

The Unioi was fumigated at the pier because of an epidemic of smallpox at Calcutta.

CAPITOL SHOWS

"GRAND HOTEL"

One of Year's Greatest Pictures Opens To-day and Will Show All Week

Garbo, Joan Crawford, Barrymore Brothers, Beery and L. Stone in Gorgeous Cast

Director Edmund Goulding knew exactly what impression he was attempting to create and what audience reactions he was expecting when he began actual filming of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-star "Grand Hotel" Theatre and will be shown for the balance of the week.

A visitor to the "Grand Hotel" set immediately became impressed with the authentic atmosphere and the bustle and stir of it all and jotted down his impressions:

Outside a frigid gust from the snow-peaked mountains, within a stuffy warmth, laden with many smells, perfumes, cigarettes, hot lights, it is a yellow room, otherwise a rathskeller, in the Berlin hotelery made famous by Vicki Baum, but which does not exist, no hotel as lavish as this one, here is a grand circular motif, gold, black, silver, red, striking tones, sharply contrasted in modernistic panels.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF SAANICH
NOTICE is hereby given to all water users that the use of water for sprinkling, etc., from the hour of 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., is prohibited between the hours of 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the area described as follows:

"All that part of Saanich Municipality lying south of the boundary line between Lake Hill District and Victoria District and East of Douglas Street."

IN POWERFUL DRAMA AT CAPITOL

Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery and Lionel Barrymore, who are playing at the Capitol Theatre all this week in "Grand Hotel."

MAE CLARKE IN ROMANO FILM

One of the most difficult and elaborate photographic feats ever attempted in a motion picture is a highlight of Universal's "Waterloo Bridge," current attraction at the Romano Theatre. A "crane shot," so named because it is accomplished by a huge crane-like truck, shows Mae Clarke, the featured player, close-up, the camera then ascends almost eighty feet in the air as she lights a match to guide the bombs of a zeppelin overhead. The camera then follows her on a downward diagonal as she runs the full length of a 500-foot production of London's famous Waterloo Bridge and is close upon her as a bomb blows her and bridge to bits.

The "shot" as it is called in studio jargon, is an original creation of Director James Whale and his cameraman, Arthur Edson, and is both technically and dramatically, one of the greatest features of the British-flavored drama.

Paul Sloane directed the punchy film, which explores territory new to the screen's sensation-seeking picture weavers. The freshness and virility of the plot is not unusual because Humphrey Pearson, author of some of the most successful original stories the talkies have brought forth, wrote "Traveling Husbands."

Paul Sloane directed the punchy film, which explores territory new to the screen's sensation-seeking picture weavers. The freshness and virility of the plot is not unusual because Humphrey Pearson, author of some of the most successful original stories the talkies have brought forth, wrote "Traveling Husbands."

The freshness and virility of the plot is not unusual because Humphrey Pearson, author of some of the most successful original stories the talkies have brought forth, wrote "Traveling Husbands."

WESTERN FILM AT COLUMBIA

Hollywood must have its sources for everything, including horses, good ranch locations, including western towns, and all other property paraphernalia connected with western pictures. For several years a gentleman known as "Pat" Jones has built up a ranch property which supplies the various motion picture companies in Hollywood with everything from a rocky, desolate background to a fine and handsome palomino. In Bob Steele's latest Tiffany western feature, "The Sunrise Trail," which is showing at the Columbia Theatre, Jones was called to the rescue with his unusual "props."

Upon completion of the film, it was discovered that a great deal of the action scenes depend largely upon the backgrounds supplied by him.

"The Sunrise Trail," a Trem Carr production presented by Tiffany Production, Inc., stars Bob Steele, and features such well-known supporting players as Mikahela Mahaffey and Jack Clifford.

Constance Cummings, appearing in Columbia's "Attorney for the Defence," in the role of secretary to a famous criminal lawyer, declares that before starting work on this picture she gave considerable time and study to the selection of exactly the type of clothes a business girl should wear.

"Attorney for the Defence," starring Edmund Lowe, is showing at the Dominion Theatre to-day.

In one scene she appears in a simple brown silk model, with a small frill and bow of cream satin at the neck and cuffs. In another scene she wears a lovely suit ensemble in blue, accented by a sheer batiste blouse, hand embroidered.

"Sunshine Susie" Is Still Showing

Following is what The Toronto Mail and Empire had to say of "Sunshine Susie," which is being held over at the Empire Theatre for another week:

"The British-made film 'Sunshine Susie' will be shown at the Uptown Theatre for another week, making the fourth consecutive week. We do not know how many different individual have seen it, but the total number of spectators must be nearly 100,000. The attendance at this sparkling musical comedy proves conclusively that Canadian people do appreciate and will patronize the fine moving pictures now made in England. Further evidence of this was seen in the recent successful engagement of Michael and Mary. "Sunshine Susie" is now being shown at the Empire.

Show Confidence In B.C. AUSTRALIA

By Heavy Investments EXTRAVAGANT

A. J. T. Taylor and English Associates Developing 4,000 Acres

Growing Esteem For This Province in Old Country, He Says

Partly because of the association of its name and its location, also its largely Anglo-Saxon population, and of the fact that it was last in fact Confederation, British Columbia represents to the average British mind a province distinct from the rest of Canada, said A. J. Taylor of London, England, this morning.

Mr. Taylor, who is here for a short visit, spoke enthusiastically and sincerely of the growing esteem felt in the Old Country for this province.

Evidence of the confidence he feels in the ultimate development of British Columbia is shown by the fact that he has been instrumental and successful in securing British capital to invest here. Associated with him is Lord Southborough, formerly first civil Lord of the Admiralty and Secretary of the Board of Trade, and W. S. Eyre, who was one of the most successful pioneers in the development of South America and who is present deputy chairman of the Peruvian Corporation.

BUY RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

They have formed a company known as the British Pacific Properties Company, with offices in Vancouver. Already they have bought 4,000 acres of residential property in West Vancouver, which is in the process of development, in co-operation with the municipality. Mr. Taylor expects to spend six months of each year in Vancouver.

"In England at the present time," Mr. Taylor says, "a spirit of hopefulness and confidence in being able to guide the empire safely through these abnormal times prevails."

"Because of the tariffs European factories are being established in England, and although wages are 33 per cent higher there, the cost of production is less, due to skilled and efficient labor."

"Women laborers in Britain are," he said, "superior to those of any place else in the world, because of their physique, temperament, intelligence and perception."

CANADIAN OPPORTUNITIES

Canada, Mr. Taylor believes, affords the average man a greater chance for happiness than any other place in the British empire. Luxuries and pleasures beyond the attainments of the ordinary individual are commonplace possessions here.

As an example he cited the trip from Vancouver to Victoria, the equal in scenic beauty of any similar trip in the world, the cost of which is within the reach of all, with no restrictions to first class, a ticket entitling its holder to all the privileges of the boat.

"Victoria is fulfilling its proper destiny as the dignified center of government and as a resort it is, perhaps, the best in British empire," Mr. Taylor commented.

WAS BORN IN VICTORIA

Mr. Taylor is a native son. His father was for many years a clergyman in Victoria and built the Cedar Hill and St. Barnabas churches. He was born in Vancouver this week for New York city, to be present at the laying of the foundation stone of the British Empire Building, which ceremony will take place in the city on the 15th of June.

Mr. Taylor is one of the greatest poets to the Rockefeller center, it was the final result of the recent self-denial canvass given. No charge will be made for admission and an interesting evening is assured.

Leaving Seattle on June 27, an international progress tour being organized by the Washington Good Roads Association, with the support of similar bodies in the Northwest, will proceed by way of Vancouver to the Sumas area of British Columbia and return by way of Kelowna and Wenatchee. Each participant will pay his way on the tour, which is designed to draw attention to new road construction in the Pacific Northwest.

STUDY SCHOOL TAX WEDNESDAY

Joint Meeting of District Bodies to Be Held at City Hall

Possibility of enforcement in Greater Victoria of the new school tax authorized by the Legislature by amendment of the Schools Act, will be discussed by representatives of the four municipalities at a joint meeting to be held at the City Hall on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The meeting has been called as a result of a joint gathering held at Royal Oak by the Saanich Council and School Board. At that meeting divergent opinions were expressed as to the practicability of the new tax, and also as to the effect of enforcement in one district if adjoining municipalities refused to join with Saanich in a round-table discussion of the matter. The Victoria School Board has refused to participate, and the Oak Bay trustees announced that they would rely upon the Oak Bay Council for representation. The Victoria City Council delegation will be Aldermen W. T. Straith and P. R. Brown.

BEST BRAINS ARE NEEDED IN B.C.

William Dick, Vancouver M.P.P., Here To-day, Wants Coalition

A government made up of the best brains of the province, was advocated to-day by William Dick, M.P.P., Vancouver, who was in the city with the visiting delegation of hotelmen urging upon the government postponement or abandonment of the proposed increase of 11 a barrel on beer.

Mr. Dick said the present state of affairs called for a coalition of all to-day to meet the urgent situation and came out strongly for a mortgage moratorium such as was invoked earlier in the war by the McBride administration. He claimed the moratorium passed at the last session was inasmuch as it merely permits postponement of payments of the principal, while under the 1915 act, the court examining each case individually could postpone interest payments in whole or

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

ALFRED CARMICHAEL
A. V. CLARKE
JOHNNY ROWLAND
JOE NORTH

Mr. Carmichael, who lives at 1523 St. Ann Street, has for many years been active in civic affairs. He is past president of the Rotary Club and the Real Estate Board. He is head of the firm of Alfred Carmichael and Company Limited, Broad Street.

Mr. North is a familiar figure in the city, who is always organizing or assisting some charitable enterprise. He is a former police commissioner. Joe's birthday is to-day.

A. V. Clarke, 321 Moss Street, is local manager of the Crawford-Harris Advertising Service. He is a native of Edinburgh, Scotland. Mr. Clarke is a popular member of the Rotary Club. "Vic's" birthday is to-day.

JOHNNY ROWLAND

To-day Johnny Rowland is celebrating the birthday of his majority on the hydrographic survey ship Lilouet somewhere off Tofofo. Johnny, one of the best forwards in the English game in Canada, last season was one of the outstanding players on the Maple Leaf team which toured Japan. He has been a tower of strength on the Victoria School "rug" teams and was one of the men who helped bring the McKelvie Cup back to the city this year.

Johnny was born in Vancouver just twenty-one years ago to-day. He came to the capital seven years ago and went to South Park School. There he shone as a soccer player and also represented the school in the preliminary rugby game to the feature match between the New Zealand All-Blacks and Victoria.

In club play he carries the colors of the Canadian Scottish, city champions and co-holders of the provincial title.

DRUGGIST ASKS COMPENSATION

A. H. Peacey, Foul Bay druggist, has asked the City Council for compensation for damage done to his premises by gunfire during the hold-up staged by Martin and Colley two weeks ago.

"My view of the situation is, if the police had not been in the area when I was called upon, I would have been the loser of $3 only," writes Mr. Peacey. The request has been referred to the Chief of Police for report.

In part. The court also could refuse to permit foreclosure for tax delinquency.

This form of moratorium should be brought in immediately by order-in-council, Mr. Dick stated.

Like People in Other Countries Australians Lived in Fool's Paradise

George F. Birks, Sydney, Tells Gyro Club That His Country Will Pay Its Way

"We in Australia had an era of extravagance. But from it I believe good will come," stated Rotarian George F. Birks of Sydney, N.S.W., in an interesting talk before members of the Gyro Club at their luncheon to-day in the Empress Hotel.

"Australia borrowed largely in other parts of the world," he said, "because she believed good times would last forever. But in this extravagance I suppose we were really no worse than any other country."

Mr. Birks wished to remove an impression that had got abroad that Australia had repudiated her interest on loans. It was only New South Wales that had announced its intention of doing this. Australia had always paid its interest.

Mr. Birks spoke at some length on the stormy political time Australia had been having of late. Ex-Premier Lang of New South Wales and his colleagues, who called themselves Laborites, were really not that at all, Mr. Birks said. They were more communists.

"Be prepared to give before you expect to get," was the motto with which Australia's delegates to the Imperial Conference would come to Canada next month, Mr. Birks said. Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Bruce and the new attorney-general, who will be representatives of the southern Dominion, are both men of upright character, trustworthy, and have made many sacrifices for Australia.

"I think the calling of an Empire Conference is a very wise thing," Mr. Birks stated. "I do not say that it is going to solve all the problems of Australia, but success will depend on the spirit of the delegates from the various countries. If they go to Ottawa in a selfish mood no good will come of the meeting. Each must be prepared to give something before he asks something in return."

Returning to present conditions in Australia, Mr. Birks said he had come to the conclusion that Australia was really no worse off than any other country at the present time, perhaps even a little better off. But he was sure good would come of the present depression. It would make people think more, make them work harder and watch their borrowings more closely. In Australia, he said, too many people had been buying motor cars and radios and other luxuries on the installment plan. Some of Australia's great sums of borrowed money had perhaps been foolishly spent. Much of it had been expended on railroads, irrigation works, which in the speaker's opinion were fifty years ahead of the times, and on canals.

In common with many countries, Australia had been living in a fool's paradise, Mr. Birks stated, and had borrowed too much. But she was paying her interest. The country was loyal to the British Empire and loyal to British traditions and these traditions called for the payment of debt whenever it was at all possible.

"I know the potential wealth of Australia," the speaker said in conclusion. "And I know the calibre of its people, and I am perfectly sure that we will come out of this depression."

"DOBBIE" TO FLY TO CITY

Popular Ship of Joy Skipper Broadcasts From Victoria Wednesday

Early Morning Radio Fans Will Have Chance to See Popular Announcer

Capt. Hugh Barrett Dobbs, skipper of the "Shell Ship of Joy," described as radio's greatest personality, will fly to Victoria from Temple Hall at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, it was announced by George I. Warren, Victoria and Island publicity commissioner, this morning.

Mr. Warren, who made the initial arrangements for "Dobbsie," as he is known to millions of radio listeners, and his party to enter British Columbia, stated plans had been made to take Capt. Dobbs on a flight which would enable him to obtain a fine early morning view of the city and country around Victoria and Vancouver.

The broadcast will be made from the Temple Hall, and CFT will be hooked up with an all-Pacific Coast network for the first time. "Wee Willie," first mate of the "Shell Ship of Joy," Max Dolin, violinist; Edward Randall Jr., baritone; Eleanor Barnard, concert pianist; Ed and Dickey, banjo and guitar; and Louise Fordham, soprano, will also be on the program.

Premier Tolmie and Mayor Leeming will extend a welcome to the captain and his crew. The whole party will afterwards be guests at a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau under the auspices of the tourist trade group at the Chamber of Commerce. Mayor Leeming will speak at the meeting, telling of prospects for this year's tourist business based on his recent trip to California.

Cleveland, June 13.—Babe Ruth hit his twenty-first home run of the year in the fifth inning of to-day's game with the Indians, leaving him only one behind Jimmy Fox of the Athletics, who is leading both leagues. Ruth's batter was hit off Jack Russell, with Joe Sewell on base, and put the Yanks ahead 5 to 1.

Charles Faithwaite was granted a remand until to-morrow morning on a charge of driving to the common danger June 7, on Johnson Street.

THE FUTURE OF MUSIC

THE PIANO is the foundation upon which music rests. It is the one instrument which is complete in the hands of the performer, requiring neither support nor accompaniment.

Without the piano there will be no music in the country; without the individual making of music, music will die out. Without the great body of people interested in music there can be no great orchestras, no great professionals, schools or development in the art of music. But because music has been a part of human nature as far as history can be traced, there is nothing that can displace the piano. It is the only complete instrument of music.

Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt to Get Gas at City Prices

Extension of the mains of the Victoria Gas Company into Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt will be commenced within one week of signature by the municipal heads of the contract which has been submitted to the council.

The municipalities will enjoy the same rates for gas as are in effect in Victoria, the contract states.

It is expected the Oak Bay council will ratify the contract on Thursday evening, and that the formal approval of the Saanich council will follow before the week-end action by Esquimalt is expected to be as speedy.

A special meeting of the Saanich council will be held to-morrow evening for consideration of the contract. The council will first sit in works committee and will probably revert into council in order to expedite negotiations.

Build Fireplace At Mt. Douglas

A huge open fireplace, built of native granite, is to be one of the features of Mount Douglas Park. The Victoria-Saanich Joint Beaches and Parks Committee has approved plans for construction of a fireplace at the playground, the location selected being in the area which formerly was used as a picnic ground on the seaward side of the old Cordova Bay Road.

The fireplace will be twelve feet in diameter across the stonework, and will have a fire bed more than five feet in width. It will be so arranged that the cheerful blaze will be visible from a large area. It is expected that evening parties, community singing and concerts will become increasingly popular after completion of the new and improved fireplace.

TWO BROKERAGES BUT NO SALE

Appeal against what he claimed was the payment of two commissions on the sale of the Carlton beer parlors in Vancouver was started here to-day before the Court of Appeal by J. A. MacInnes on the sale of the Carlton Hotel Company Limited.

Mr. MacInnes is asking the court to upset the judgment of Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in the Supreme Court which gave J. MacInnes and H. J. Malcolm, as members of the real estate firm of J. Malcolm and Son, one commission of $1,000 and another commission of $250 on the sale.

The Carlton people, Mr. MacInnes said, agreed to sell the business, including the licence, for $24,000, with payments of $10,000 down and $2,500 a month, in addition to which there was

LIGHT POLES CAUSE PROTEST

The Real Estate Board of Victoria has formally protested to the City Council against continuance of the policy of carrying light and telephone wires on overhead poles along high-class residential streets. Rockland Avenue and St. Charles Street are cited as examples of streets where replacement of existing poles is criticized by the board.

The practice is termed objectionable and the council is asked to call a conference of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Limited, the British Columbia Telephone Company, the city lighting department and representatives of the Real Estate Board, to try to find a method of removing unnecessary poles.

In addition the Derby considers of 1933 will be seen in their first big tests in the distinguished two-year-old events of Tuesday and Thursday, the Coventry Stakes and the new stakes.

The royal circle at Windsor Castle, so far from the course, during the week will include King George and Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, Prince and Princess of Wales, the Earl of Harewood, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George. ## MARATHON WON BY CUDWORTH

Toronto, June 13.—Eddie Cudworth, smooth-striding Toronto youngster, won the Canadian marathon championship Saturday from a field of seventy-two of the finest distance runners on the continent.

The twenty-year-old Monarch Athletic Club star raced the twenty-six miles, 385 yards course in two hours and fifty-two minutes, leading Johnny Semple, sturdy Scotch runner of Lynn, Mass., recent winner of the Pawtucket marathon and a candidate for the 1932 British Olympic team, to the wire by barely two and a half minutes. Percy Wier, little Toronto veteran and 1930 champion, was third, less than a minute behind Semple.

Fourth place went to Alex. Burnside, Toronto, first Canadian to finish in the 1932 Boston marathon. Team prize for the marathon went to the Monarch Club, Toronto, whose runners finished first, third and fourth.

Toronto, June 13.—Maple Leafs made it three triumphs in four starts over their intracity rivals, Tecumsehs, Saturday night before 5,000 people when they trounced the Indians, 14 to 7, in a hard-fought box lacrosse tilt. The victory boosted Eddie Power's Leafs into second place behind the prize-winning Montreal Canadiens in the International League standing.

Ideal Weather One Cause of Declines In Winnipeg Wheat

Winnipeg, June 13.—Ideal weather throughout western Canada's grain belt and general indifference displayed by European buyers of wheat gave a downward slant to wheat prices here to-day. Values at the close were 1/2 to 1 lower than Saturday's figures.

July wheat, 65 1/2 to 66 1/2; October 1/2 to 57 1/2, and December declined an even cent to 56 1/2.

There was a meagre export trade worked over the week-end but no estimate was available.

The market was without feature, punctuated by long periods of complete inactivity. There was no pressure to buy or sell and traders voted the session one of the dullest in the week.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, June 13.—Wheat: The wheat market was quiet, featureless and drab to-day, and prices declined to 1/2 to 1 1/2 under the close Saturday, slipping down to the daily bids, the buying against which checked further declines. The Chicago market broke 1 1/2 cents but staged a little comeback with some short covering reported.

There was little outside interest shown in this market and export sales over the week-end were disappointing, being confined to a few loads of Manitoba. There was no particular pressure on this market, which apparently eased off of its own weight and in sympathy with the decline in Chicago and the weakness in Liverpool which closed one lower, while Buenos Aires was half lower at midday.

The cash market was also quiet with only a very slow demand from any quarter; at the same time offerings were light and all spreads were unchanged. There was report of some hail damage in Kansas and reports of threatening in that state, although wheat from 5 to 8 bushels per acre. The weather is warm in the southwest and generally favorable for bringing the crop to maturity. Harvesting operations are generally increasing.

Conditions in spring wheat territory continue very favorable and further showers were received over the week-end, both sides of the border, although they did not extend into northern areas of Alberta, but moisture is generally ample in all areas for the time being. The forecast for the week-end in the Canadian west. The U.S. supply showed a moderate decrease of 2,792,000 bushels, while Canadian visible decreased 1,650,000 bushels. Country marketings in the west on Saturday were 690,000 vs. 437,000 a year ago.

Winnipeg closed 1/2 to 1 lower. Coarse grains—Wheat mostly quiet. Oats cash spreads off 1/2 cent. There was a little export business reported in barley and rye, but it was small and confined to a few loads in both cases. Oats closed 1/2 to 1/2 lower, barley 1/2 to 1/2 higher and rye 1/2 higher to 1/2 lower, flax 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher. Liverpool due unchanged to 1/2 lower, on Winnipeg.

Prominent Japanese
Due Here In Morning

Prince Shimazu and Dr. Matsui Are Passengers on Ss. President Madison

liner Will Dock at Rithet Piers Early to Discharge Large Parcel of Cargo

Two distinguished Japanese will be visitors in Victoria for a short time to-morrow morning as passengers aboard the American mail liner President Madison, on their way from Japan to Europe. They will proceed to Seattle aboard the ship and go on to New York, from where they will sail for England.

They are Prince T. Shimazu, descendant of the ancient Satsuma clan, and Dr. S. Matsui, director of the Japanese Red Cross Society. Prince Shimazu makes his home at Kagoshima, on the island of Kyushu, in southern Japan. Both are going to Berlin to attend the second international convention of Social Workers.

Members of the Japan Society of Seattle are planning a welcome for the arrival of the President Madison there to-morrow. If the Prince's itinerary will permit him to remain over in Seattle the Japan Society will give a dinner party on Wednesday in his honor.

Another passenger aboard the inbound President Madison is R. E. Manly, Democratic national committee man from the Philippine Islands, who will attend the Democratic National Convention in the United States. He has not missed a similar convention since 1912.

After making an exhaustive study of Asia, Dr. H. R. Phillips, a world famous geologist, will also arrive here by the Madison. Miss Carmen de Los Reyes, well-known business woman from Manila, and E. M. Allison, Shanghai, connected with the Chinese National Airways, are other passengers who will sight-see Victoria, while the President Madison is in port.

According to wireless advice received in Victoria this morning the liner will be alongside the Rithet Piers shortly after 6 o'clock. She will remain here until 10 o'clock before continuing her voyage to Seattle.

More than 600 tons of general cargo will be left here. This includes a parcel of raw silk which will be put aboard the H. F. Alexander tomorrow evening for San Francisco, where it will be loaded aboard the Democratic National Convention, which will sail from the Golden Gate port Thursday afternoon for New York, by way of the Panama Canal.

British Adventurers Hope to Find Buried Pirate Treasure Near Port-au-Spain

Port of Spain, Trinidad, June 13.—A band of British adventurers who are seeking Spanish treasure made contact Saturday with a galleon on the bed of Chaguaramas Bay which, they hoped, was crammed with gold ingots and precious jewels.

The operations have been directed by a "divining spring" owned by Frank Cooper, one of the leaders of the group who crossed the Atlantic recently in the Vigilant, a tiny vessel, in the hope of making a fortune. It was reported that the "divining spring" held in Cooper's clenched hands, leaped from his grasp.

Chaguaramas Bay has long been looked upon as a place where treasure might be found. It was there that the Spanish were defeated by the British in a decisive naval engagement near the end of the eighteenth century. The legend is that the Spanish fleet contained one vessel loaded to the rails with gold and gems.

A great steaming mound of moving lava, he said in a message sent to Seward, has been pushed out of the earth and has changed the contour of the sea section of the island completely. The mass is apparently increasing in size.

The "growth" is taking place, the Santa Clara University professor suggested, at a place where formerly a sheltered harbor existed.

His observations were made on a voyage from Bristol Bay with his party on the motorship Polar Bear. Despite storms and high seas a successful landing was made.

Proves Volcanic
Islands Growing

Seward, Alaska, June 13.—An isolated Bering Sea island, populated only by a herd of immense sea lions and great flocks of birds, Bogoslov, has given Father Bernard R. Hubbard what he declares to be proof of how volcanic islands "grow."

KAPAI WINS
YACHT RACE

Major W. Garrard's Entry Only Few Seconds Out; Voulour Second and Miko Third

The Kapa, Major W. Garrard's motorboat, on Saturday captured the handsome Lane Cup, and the second of the series for the Burchell Cup, by winning the race from Cadboro Bay to Cowichan Bay in a week-end cruise to Cowichan under the auspices of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

Glorious yachting weather favored the occasion, and there was a large turn-out of local boats.

The skippers chose their own departure times, the one reaching the finish point nearest to 7 o'clock being declared the winner. Major Garrard arrived at 6.59.25 p.m., only thirty-five seconds too soon. Second in the event was the Voulour, Dr. Thomas Mercer, who arrived at 8.03.10 p.m., three minutes and ten seconds out. Colonel E. R. Tooley in his Miko, crossed the finishing line at 7.06.45 p.m. The Kelpie, H. W. Miller, and the Voga, H. G. Beaver, the only other two entries, were unable to finish. The Kelpie had engine trouble, and broke down off D'Arcy Island.

E. M. Dawson-Thomas, honorary secretary of the Cowichan Bay Yacht Club, checked the boats as they finished. The local yachtsmen and their friends spent the night anchored amid the beauties of Cowichan Bay. They were welcomed by Cowichan yachtsmen, and leisurely cruising back to their moorings in Cadboro Bay. The course from Cadboro to Cowichan is approximately twenty-six and a half nautical miles.

The scheduled sailing boat race for the Cowichan Cup, which was to have been held yesterday, was postponed until later in the season.

Dublin, June 13.—It was understood to-day a day of grace had been arranged in connection with the next instalment of the land annuities, due to the national debt commissioners of Great Britain, on Wednesday, which would postpone for that period the threatened default by the Irish Free State Government.

B.C. FISH OUTPUT
SHOWS DECREASE

Drops From $23,000,000 in 1930 to $11,000,000 Last Year, Statistics Show

Ottawa, June 13.—The total value of output of the British Columbia fisheries in 1931 was $11,000,000, compared with $23,000,000 in the preceding year, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics Saturday. These totals represent the value of the fish as marketed, whether sold for consumption fresh, or canned, cured or otherwise prepared.

The size of the annual revenue for the British Columbia fisheries is dependent chiefly on the size of the salmon pack, and this dropped from the high record of 2,251,783 cases, valued at $13,903,396 in 1930 to 686,104 cases, valued at $5,077,600 in 1931. The total marketed value of the salmon, including used fresh, canned, dry-salted, etc., in 1931 was $7,196,174, compared with $16,618,884 in 1930.

The halibut catch, which is second in importance in British Columbia to the salmon, was also less, amounting to 182,066 hundredweight, compared with 254,966 hundredweight in 1930. The catch of pilchard was only slightly less than in 1930, but the marketed value of the product (chiefly oil and meal) decreased from $1,889,609 to $807,842.

The catch of fish of all kinds in British Columbia in 1931 amounted to 4,646,662 hundredweight, with a value to the fishermen of $5,880,905, compared with a catch of 6,527,004 hundredweight and a value of $17,331 in 1930.
